City buys new fire engine for $50,000

City of Campbell bought a new diesel truck for $50,000 Monday night. But the pumper is not expected to arrive in town for at least another year.

On Monday night the City Council accepted the low bid of $50,360.44 submitted by Seagrave's Fire Apparatus, Inc.. There were two other bidders, American LaFrance ($53,665.50) and Crown Coach Corporation ($55,581.50).

Fire Chief George Maxwell, who coincidentally, was also acting as city manager in the absence of vacationing City Manager Bob Stephens, recommended that the Seagrave's bid be accepted. He explained that the net cost of the 1500 GMP combination pumping engine was $49,-856.85.

The city will buy on a lease-purchase arrangement with $9,775 paid on delivery and the balance over five years. Interest at 5½ of the unpaid balance will be $6,705.72.

The City Council authorized City Attorney Joe Bonacia to proceed with the purchase of the Hiatt & Zolezzi property from the city bonds that have been sold for that purpose.

The city has sold $325,000 of the $625,000 park bond issue that was passed on June 10. It is expected that fees and interest will increase the purchase price to about $303-000.

More time was spent Monday night by the City Council discussing what Bill Wren, public works director, has ex-

Planners to act Monday on Gomes Ranch complex

Plans for a 780-unit apartment complex that is proposed for the Gomes Ranch will be up for approval at the Planning Commission meeting next Monday, Aug. 18.

Scheduled for the same meeting is the pre-zoning proposal for the nine-acre parcel in the Whiteoaks area that is in the process of being annexed to the city.

But before the Commission acts on the pre-zoning matter, a report on the land use of 490 acres in the general area will be made by representatives of the County Planning Department.

The 490-acre section includes the proposed Campbell annexation.

Art Kee, city planning director, will also submit a report on a land-use study that his department has compiled of the area.

Approximately 72% of the area included in the county report is now unincorporated But much of it is expected to go either into San Jose or Campbell in the future.

The area that was studied by the county is roughly bounded by Jacksol Dr. on the east; Highway 17 on the west; Camden Ave., on the north and Branham Lane on the south.

The city study was made of an area that is bounded on the east by Bascom; on the west by Winchester/RR; on the south by the West Valley Freeway; on the north by Camden and the San Tomas Expressway.

In the Gomes Ranch development submitted by John DeManto and Anthony C. Morici, 6½-acres fronting on Hamilton will be commercially improved, extending 315 feet deep.

However, the commercial plans have not yet been completed and the Planning Commission will not take action on them next Monday night.

The entire development is expected to exceed $12.5 million. The plans call for Third St. to be extended to Hamilton from Latimer and more than 50% of the area is earmarked for open space and recreational facilities.

REACHING OUT--Al Jones, left, proprietor of Rocket Car Wash, 1790 Winchester Blvd., loaned his facilities to the Campbell Police Department to steam clean the large GMC van contributed by the San Jose Mercury-News for the police community service project. On the right is Officer Robert Lockwood who helped with the cleaning job.

Campbell police community service program adds new "mobile unit"

Hundreds of citizens of this community, during the past few years through the Campbell police department's continuing community service program have become better informed about the relationship of the local police to the community and its citizens.

And with the acquisition of a new "mobile unit", these citizen contacts can be expanded to a great extent.

At least that's the hope of Police Chief John D. Morgan, who this week was attempting to work out the details of a novel approach to supplement the program through an especially equipped vehicle.

Campbell Police Department, as part of a continuing program to bring better community service to the residents of Campbell, has undertaken the project of outfitting a large van truck with material and equipment designed to help the average citizen be more aware of the services offered by the police department

Information as to how the citizen can help himself in times of trouble or emergency will also be available.

The mobile public information unit was brought closer to a reality recently with the gift of a large van truck which had been donated to the Santa Clara County Safety Council by the San Jose Mercury News.

The truck in turn was then turned over to the Campbell Police Department by :

Police sergeant thwarts rapist

A 19-year old suspected rapist is in custody this week through the efforts of an alert Campbell Police sergeant.

The suspect was thwarted in the act of intiminating his third victim who possibly would have suffered forcible rape or robbery, if it had not been for the police officer's actions.

Sgt. Edward Fallgatter apprehended Daniel Alan Westmoreland, 751 Century Dr., who was threatening the young 16-year old girl with a knife held at her throat. The attack, similar to two previous incidents in the same area of

Campbell elementary school board approves budget of $9½ million

Without question or comment from the small crowd in attendance, the trustees of Campbell Union (elementary) School District last Thursday (Aug. 7) adopted a record-breaking $9½ million budget for the 1969-70 school year.

Less than 15 people, mostly teachers, made up the audience when the trustees gave approval to the budget that had been under study by the board for more than a month.

Of the total budget, 85% is earmarked for salaries of personnel.

Neal Royer, district superintendent, pointed out that recent legislative changes had been received just prior to the budget session and last minute changes has been made to include an expected increase of about $250,000.

That amount is expected to be received by the Campbell district based on the recent legislature approval of a $133.7 million school bill that basically favored hard-pressed suburban school districts.

According to reports the Campbell Union High School District is expected to receive $220,064.

The reports also indicated that the Cambrian (elementary) allocation would be $228,064; Moreland, $489,-753; Union, $686,448; Los Gatos, $69,696; Saratoga, $56,484.

Cupertino was scheduled to receive $1,083,585 from the state.

The amount that Campbell elementary district is to receive, the board specified would be placed in the undistributed reserve portion of the budget for future distribution by action of the trustees.

At the same meeting the budget was adopted, the Campbell board accepted the architectural plans and specification from the A.M. Walter firm for additions to Cypress, Hazelwood, Forest Hill and Campbell schools.

The trustees also continued study on the suggestion of the Campbell Elementary Teachers Association for released time for the association president during the coming year.

Discussion of proposed salary increases for all employees was scheduled for the next meeting, Sept. 11.

Two area youths pedal their bikes from Canadian border to Campbell

Those wide shoulders of the freeways, although banned to bicyclists under most conditions, are safer bike routes than many of the less-traveled highways.

At least that's the opinion of two young men in the area who recently completed a 1500-mile bike trek from the Canadian border to Campbell.

Mac Morris, Jr., 15 son of Mr. and Mrs. Mac Morris of 1325 Dry Creek Rd, who has attended Del Mar High for the last two years, and his cousin, Jay Morris, Jr., 17 of Los Gatos, spent 18 days on the road with their bikes. The tour included a side trip to Olympic National Forest in Washington.

They admit that they did not have much opportunity to travel on the freeways. But the little they did they preferred to some of the other spots they can recall.

Such as, for example, that time in northern California when a logging truck squeezed by allowing only about four inches to spare between the bike and the cliff.

That they were able to travel on the freeway at all with their bikes will come as a surprise to many. Apparently, there are times because of construction conditions that bikes are allowed on freeways.

Or if the freeway is the only way to get to a specific destination.

But that reason sometimes isn't enough for the highway patrol, and the two young men have a ticket to prove it, obtained in Redding.

It is also claimed in some circles that, unless a freeway is definitely "posted" banning bike, bicycle traveling can be allowed.

But that CHP fellow wasn't convinced on that either.

Anyway that is being checked out now.

In addition to the ticket acquired in Redding which forced the youths to go 25 miles out of their way, they had a freeway problem in Vallejo involving the bridge.

They were banned from crossing the bridge on their bikes. But a kind-hearted motorist allowed them to put their bikes in the trunk of his car and thus they were able to get across.

That driver, incidentally, was going the opposite way when he noted their plight. He turned around and took them across.

That was quite different from some motorists on the highway who apparently thought it smart to see how close they could come to the bike-riders.

Actually, although there was some "close ones", outside of a total of five flat tires between them and a broken chain, the 18-day trip was made right on schedule, with no major roadblocks.

That chain problem occured on Mac's bike while they were camped at Sol Duc in the Olympic National Forest. It was necessary to call to Berkeley to get a chain replacement shipped to them.

There was neither phone nor postal service at Sol Duc which necessitated going about 15 miles to the nearest store.

The first chain that was shipped from the Velo Sport Shop in Berkeley was lost in transit. The box arrived without the chain. But they made it on the second try.

To get to the Canadian border to start their trip, the two cousins took their bikes apart, taped the wheels to the frames and carried them as luggage on the plane they took from San Francisco to Vancouver.

At the Vancouver terminal they put the bikes together and were on their way. After taking the ferry to Horseshoe Bay Island they rode until 2 a.m. that first day in order to get out of town.

On the average, however, they covered 85 miles per day, riding generally from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Their longest haul for one day, however, was from Bend, Oregon to Klamath Falls, about 140 miles.

The boys carried sleeping bags and a two-man lightweight waterproofed tent (which they really used in Washington). They also carried the necessary bike repair tools, fishing equipment, cameras, two spare tires AND one pot and one frying pan.

They bought their food day by day as they went along.

Their breakfasts generally consisted of eggs and potatoes. They admit that for their evening meals they favored canned foods. ("It was easier to fix").

But the chow apparently agreed with them.

Both youths are over six-feet tall, Jay is 6'3" and Mac is 6'1". They both weigh about 170 pounds. Jay says he lost eight pounds on the trip. Mac says he stayed the same.

They stayed in camp grounds or along the road, if there was no public campground handy.

One morning after camping in a field they were awakened by a farmer plowing and while stopping overnight in the public park in Klamath Falls, the automatic sprinkler system that went off in the middle of the nignt gave them a good dousing.

They started down the coastal route (101) but shifted to inland because of the bad weather in Oregon, going from Portland over Mt. Hood to Bend.

The worst weather they encountered, they maintain, was in lower Washington, where wind and rain combined make things a trifle rough.

They had to pedal like mad (they recall) against the wind downhill and then pedal just as hard up the next hill.

They claim that the best riding weather was on Vancouver Island neither too hot nor too cold.

They think the hottest spot was Sacramento when it was more than 105-degrees.

To facilitate repairs on the road, the youths have identical bikes, especially equipped Raleigh Professional 10-speed racing bikes. Before returning to their homes, they stopped at the Velo Sport Shop in Berkeley where the bikes were PEDALING COUSINS--Mac Morris, Jr., 15 (left) and Jay Morris, Jr., 17 first cousins, recently completed a bike trip from the Canadian border to Campbell. They flew to Vancouver, carrying their disassembled bikes on board the plane as luggage. They reassembled them in the air terminal and then took off for home.

ANOTHER ANONYMOUS note on the subject of motorcycle noise was received this week.

Actually it really was "signed". But obviously the writer's real name was not used.

We couldn't find "A. READER" in the city directory.

As we have said before, we believe those residents living adjacent to the so-called cycle drag strip have a legitimate complaint.

But their case is weakened in our eyes, when those complaining hide behind a cloak anonymity

Time and time again we have announced that, although we welcome letters from our readers, we cannot use unsigned missives.

If the writer prefers, his name will not be published but it must be on file.

The writing of anonymous letters is not a new activity.

It has been going on for years.

In many instances the anonymous letters are insulting or slanderous in nature.

In those cases, it is clearly evident why the party doesn't want his name known.

It is a case of pure and simple cowardice.

BUT IT IS DIFFICULT for us to fathom the reasoning behind sending unsigned notes on a case as strong as the gripe against the cycle-noisemakers.

At least we think the case is a strong one.

But maybe it isn't.

If "A. Reader" and others don't feel strongly enough about the situation to sign their names to their letters of protest, how can they expect to gain support for their protests?

"A.Reader" in the note asked why there wasn't a noise-abatement law and also why did the city permit the recently-acquired city parkland between Budd and Expressway to be used by the motorcyclists.

(The city hasn't officially acquired the land yet. But that's not the point.)

You know, those really are good questions.

"A.Reader" should not have been ashamed to have asked them.

Maybe we can find the answers.

If we do, we would like to let "A.Reader" know.

But we don't know the address.

ALTHOUGH YOU MIGHT gather that we were somewhat irked by the anonymous letters, especially for such a legitimate cause, we recognize that many people don't want to get involved in issues personally.

They may have strong feelings on such matters but they back away when it comes to getting involved.

But the questions raised in the note from "A.Reader" reminded us of a regular feature that appears weekly on the front page of The Temple City Times, a newspaper in southern California with which we were affiliated for some time.

Perhaps such a feature could be developed by The Campbell Press, if enough interest was shown by readers of this sheet.

To blatantly copy the feature, the heading would be "WHAT'S THE QUESTION?

And by word of explanation:

Do you wonder what's really going on in Campbell?

In City Hall? The Schools?

"What's the Question" will give you the lowdown on local problems, big and little, that perplex you.

Write to WHAT'S THE QUESTION, The Campbell Press, P.O. Box 158, Campbell 95008. (Be sure to sign your question but your name can

Backyard burning ban

Effective January 1, 1970 backyard burning will be banned in the six-county area that makes up the San Francisco Bay Area Air Pollution District.

The burning ban, of course, affects every householder.

Although it seems a drastic measure to have to take, indications seem to be that it won't be upsetting to the average resident as some have anticipated it will be.

Southern California, for example, has had the backyard burning ban in effect for 15 years and the people down there have lived through it.

It is also interesting to note just how few, relatively speaking, backyard incinerators are being used in this community at the present time.

But we also recognize that there are still a considerable number of residents in our city who still burn.

AND they want to know just what the city is going to do about it come January.

Unfortunately the city has nothing to say about it. In fact the City of Campbell officially protested the ban. But the Air Pollution District has the authority. And that is that.

We have no idea how much actual smog is caused by the backyard incinerators. That is not our field. We submit that we must go along with the experts whether or not we like it.

The biggest gripe against the burning ban will come from those who periodically gather their clippings and trimmings together and burn 'em instead of having them hauled away.

Although the records will show that they are by far in the minority in the community, the fact remains that they will have to change their method of operation. And they don't like it. They want to know who is going to pay for the stuff to be hauled away.

Although the problem may not be as serious as some would make it, the Air Pollution District has received inquiries on the subject and has submitted suggestions concerning alternate ways of disposing of household waste after the ban goes into effect on January 1.

For what it is worth, here are the suggestions as contained in a recent letter to the City Council:

INCINERATORS

It has been the district's experience that only multiple-chamber incinerators with auxiliary sources of heat (natural gas), will meet the requirements of District Regulations. The total cost of disposal with this type incinerator would be substantially higher than existing hauling services for most homeowners. Large estates or locations lacking hauling service might consider this method of disposal. Hauling to landfill at this time appears to be more economical than community incineration.

RESIDENTIAL COLLECTION SERVICE

The most satisfactory and economical substitute for backyard burning is an adequate collection service. If you have not yet evaluated your collection service, we recommend that this be given a high priority. While each government agency will want to survey their status, generally the need will be for sufficient compactor trucks to collect all refuse. Since there are fixed costs per stop, prices need not necessarily increase in proportion to the number of cans collected.

Larger trucks also hold the costs from increasing in proportion to the increase in tonnage collected. Some families, by improved compaction of their refuse, may not need additional cans.

DEBRIS BOX SERVICE

An alternate to increasing the number of cans is debris box service. This service can be provided either to individuals when needed, or to a neighborhood on a regular basis. with provision for cost sharing.

CHIPPERS AND SHREDDERS

Several types of machines have been developed which reduce the volume of tree limbs, trimmings, clippings, etc. Wood chippers are used by many tree services. This type of machine may be applicable for large quantities of limbs or brush. Small shredders are are available which could be useful to owners of estates or large lots.

PAPER COLLECTION

Service clubs, the Boy Scouts and fire department in various areas are providing depots for the collection of newspapers to be bound and resold to paper box companies to be re-processed into useful material. While the compensation for such salvage isn't large, it is a commendable public service activity because newspapers are difficult to dispose of otherwise.

PAPER SHREDDERS

There are several commercial "electric wastebaskets" on the market that enable people with confidential papers to shred them without running the risk to re-assembly by other persons prior to ultimate disposal via sanitary landfill at a dump. There are also commercial services available.

These suggestions are by no means all-inclusive.

For example, many gardeners might urge the creation of municipal compost piles, to be created out of neighborhood garden clippings and be available to all who wish to use base organic material.

Still others might wish to explore the development of municipal size incinerators.

But whatever solution or combination of solutions a community may adopt, we are sure that, your citizens will agree that the alternatives are preferable to continuing the practice of burning refuse in open containers.

Such practices not only add to the regional problem of air pollution, but also constitute an appreciable local nuisance.

be withheld if you desire).

We know there are a lot of things that are bugging you. Maybe it would help to clear the air.

We would like to give it a whirl, if you think it is worth a try.

Not that we know all the answers.

But we are pretty sure we know where to find 'em.

ADMITTEDLY THERE are times, however, when we get pretty frustrated with our effort to keep you informed about community matters.

Like at the Planning Commission the other night when a resident on Parkdale, who has also appeared at previous sessions in protest of a possible third screen for the Winchester Drive-in, complained that he had not been informed that the matter was coming up that night.

He learned it from his neighbors, he told the Commission.

Apparently his neighbors had read The Campbell Press which had reported in some detail that the third screen issue was going to be at bat again.

You win a few and you lose a few.

DURING THE DISabout the third screen that the Winchester Drive-in Theater people want on a six-acre landlocked parcel adjacent to the present operation, we learned that there are about six good motion pictures a year.

At least that is what we deduced during the set-to over the traffic problems that the residents in the area claim are caused by the theater.

Michael diLeonardo, attorney for the theater owners, asked Anthony Sota, one of the chief spokesman for the protesting residents, how many times during the year did he estimate the theater traffic clogged the streets for any time.

Sota wasn't sure. He suggested, however, that it occured when good pictures were being shown.

The guessestimate on that was about six times a year.

We bet there are some who think that figure is even too high.

DO YOU KNOW WHAT "SPRITZ" means?

We are indebted to our niece, Mary Vierhus, for the addition of the word "spritz" to our vocabulary.

Mary, was born and raised in Pennsylvania and with our nephew, Jack and their four boys, moved to this area a year ago.

She brought with her a number of colorful Pennsylvania colloquialisms which, unfortunately, she is fast losing as she becomes Californized.

But she still uses "spritz". And now we are too.

And it's in the dictionary. We looked it up. But just because we didn't know the word, it doesn't necessarily follow that you don't.

After all you do it all the time during the summer.

You SPRITZ the lawn and garden.

"Spritz", according to the dictionary, is "to spray briefly and quickly."

And there was also this additional notation: "Schpritze-PaG".

That's right, "PaG" stands for Pennyslvania German.

What were you expecting?

COINCIDENCE DEPARTMENT–While City Manager Bob Stephens was on vacation, Fire Chief George Maxwell, as senior city department head, was acting city manager.

Bob missed only one City Council meeting.

But it was this meeting at which Fire Chief Maxwell was sitting in the city manager's chair that the bids for the new pumper for the fire department were considered by the Council and the contract awarded.

Ye gods, what timing!!!

But before any of you get the wrong impression, we hasten to add that it was merely coincidental that George was acting city manager at the time the fire pumper bids were being considered.

Otherwise his face might have been fire engine red.

ANOTHER NEW RECord must have been set by "The Towers" recently. That telephone number that is on the sign at about the ninth floor just has to be the largest in town.

Incidentally, the "curtain walling" phase of the construction is now taking place.

That may sound too technical for us.

But we have learned that that is what the installation of the framework for the glass is called.

In two months, it is expected that "The Towers" will be fully encased in glass, according to Kevin Salmon, the leasing agent for the project.

Thats really high glass.

The rear wheels needed respoking. Because of the constant weight and usage the spokes were continually "pinging".

The only cyclist they met on the road was a young rider in Klamath Falls who was heading back to Pennsylvania from Newport Beach, Calif.

However, in Red Bluff they were met by a real bike buff, an elderly highway official in the area, who had ridden to St. Louis by bike after he had reached his 65th birthday.

He took the boys to his home where his wife cooked them a chicken dinner, a welcome change from their rather bland diet.

Although this was the first long trip for Jay, young Mac participated with his immediate family last year on a bike ride from the Oregon line to Campbell.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris, and their three children, Peggy, Mac and Chris, took eight days to make the 540-mile trek.

All of them continue to be bike enthusiasts and are looking forward to more trips, although they are not sure they will pedal through Canada very much.

The two cousins report that they were stopped six times during the short time they were in Canada.

The police officers warned them that they could not ride on the roads. But they allowed them to continue. There was not much else they could do.

JayCee sign gets boost

Persistency on the part of the Campbell JayCees (AND an estimated $2500 reduction in the cost for electrical work) apparently has made the chances for getting an illuminated city entrance sign a little brighter.

That was indicated Monday night at the City Council meeting when Dave Norman, representing the JayCees, made another pitch for city approval of the sign that would be constructed by the JayCees and could be the model for all entrance signs of the city in the future.

The sign, plasticized and illuminated, would be 8-feet high and 10-feet wide and would be located on the median strip on W. Hamilton. It has been originally estimated that the electricial installation would cost $3000.

However, Monday night it was reported that an oral estimate of $500 had been received for that work.

On the motion of Councilman Bill Smeed the city staff was directed to work with the JayCees to come up with a firm proposal on the cost at the next meeting.

Councilman Ed Rogers voted against the motion, specifying as he had from the beginning, that he did not favor a plasticized-illuminated sign because he felt it invited vandalism. He commended the JayCees for their efforts but thought an all-redwood or wrought iron job would be better.

Supporting Norman is his presentation was Nozer Haladwala, JayCee prexy, who said that the JayCees as a whole felt that the design was the very best that could be devised and the organization would not be interested in any other type. Dave Valkenaar, another JayCee, explained the method that would be used in the electrical installation.

Valkenaar, a member of the city's public works department, said that he had not yet has an opportunity to talk to Bill Wren, public works director about the proposed electrical setup which was $2500 less than the original estimate.

It is the hope of Chief Morgan, that the people within the community will see this as a community project, for no money has been budgeted toward this service. Chief Morgan visualizes that the van will be able to visit shopping centers in the area at least once a month on a Saturday night, loaded with information bulletins, visual aids and other materials designed to acquaint people with the various services being offered by the police department.

In addition the truck would visit all of the schools on a regularly scheduled basis, bringing information to the children on vital matters such as bicycle safety, the Block Parent program and pedestrian precautions.

The 1961 GMC 12-foot van has been steam-cleaned through the courtesy of Alexander Jones, owner of the Rocket Car Wash on Winchester Blvd., and new paint and body work has already been donated.

Needed, according to Morgan, are volunteer craftsmen and cabinet makers who will undertake to fit the interior body with shelves, cabinets and work tables in order that the van may be used in the community service work.

pected to be routine matter than any other single item on the evening's agenda.

Wren had asked for approval of an agreement with Consoer Townsend & Associates for engineering services to be performed for the proposed local improvement district for Camden Ave. He explained that it had been his department's policy in the past to get outside engineering services for projects that did not involve major streets.

Wren's request blew up a storm, involving what was termed by Councilman Dean Chamberlin as excessive charges by the engineering firm for services performed and concepts and philosophies in general as to "jobbing out" jobs.

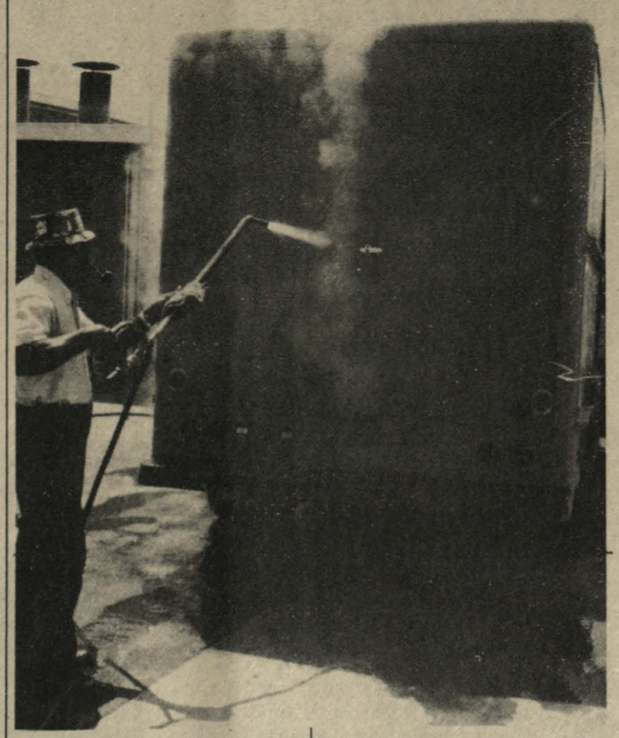
Wren's request finally passed 4-1 (Chamberlin dissenting) but not before every councilman had expressed his opinion.

In contrast, two other requests by Wren sailed right by. The Council agreed to employ the George Nolte firm of Palo Alto to assist on a design for the proposed Highway 17-Campbell off-ramp which possibly could help "sell" the idea to the state. The council also approved the agreement with Mrs. H.W. Morton at Union and Campbell Ave., for property needed for the street improvement.

The Council also approved the request of Pan Pacific Properties (Sam Ishigo) for a zone change from R-1 to C-1-S at 262 Sunnyoaks which would allow a convenience market to be located on the site. Gary Stokes, a civil engineer and Cupertino councilman represented the applicant. The original application for highway commercial had been turned down.

The City Council also approved the recommendation of the Planning Commission granting Lowell Grattan (Sunrise Investment) an extension in the planned development schedule for property on Hamilton between Llewellyn and Carlyn. A stipulation was included, however, that the lot had to be cleared of weeds and leveled.

In the first year of life, the human brain trebles in size, a growth unknown in other animal species.



A BIG CLEAN-UP JOB–The 12 foot van which will be used by the Campbell Police Department in bringing community services closer to the public, it gets a steam cleaning at the hands of Al Jones, Rocket Car Wash owner.

Yosemite camp trip for seniors

Members of the Senior Action Center are planning a camping trip for August 19, 20 under the direction of Sam Bozzo. The August trip reservations have already been filled by a group of eager "oldsters", but another trip is being planned for the near future.

During a recent spaghetti dinner Bozzo showed slides of a group of seniors hiking and camping at Yosemite, the oldest member of the group being 82 with an average age of 75.

A transportation committee headed by Clara Gregg is working on the purchase of or lease of a station wagon which will be used for transporting members to doctors visits, shopping, and to the meetings.

Using the experience of Little House in Menlo Park the group hopes to secure a 9-passenger station wagon, on a rental basis with a grant from the Self-Help Foundation. The drivers will be volunteers, people from church groups, men and women employed at night who can donate a half-day a week, and their own members who qualify. The service will be free to anyone over 65 or the disabled.

Routing the bus has not yet been worked out. This will depend on individual need. The bus will run on Saturday & Sunday as well as weekdays. If the experience with one bus works out, they hope to add more to cover a wider area including Los Gatos. People who are interested in using the bus should call the Center, 378-5323, or come to the meetings on Sundays, at 2 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson exchange wedding vows

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Anderson

Family heirlooms played a significant part in the recent wedding of Toni Yvonne Wood and Robert Anderson.

As the lovely brunette bride met her bridegroom at the altar of St. Lucy's Church, she wore her great great grandmothers wedding band and carried the same hankerchief her mother carried in her wedding, carrying out the traditional something old and something borrowed. The little flower girl, Miss Amy Elizabeth Dill, carried the same basket that the bride had carried in a wedding 20 years ago.

Miss Wood, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward William Wood of N. Carlyn Ave., was radiant in a long sleeved skimmer which flowed into an A line skirt. Her detachable Watteau train, neckline and sleeves were appliqued with Alencon lace and her bouffant veil was held in place with a bow cap of organza and lace, and she carried a cascade of lovely white orchids with a removable corsage.

Toni was graduated from Campbell High School and West Valley college and is presently employed at Stanford University.

Powder blue long sleeved gowns with white ruffed lace cuffs were worn by attendants Mrs. Richard Sciuto, Miss Darla Scheid, Mrs. Howard Spruit and Mrs. Jack Smith. They all carried carnation nosegays of blue and white, with short veils held with matching bows. The rings for the double ceremony were carried by Kenneth Wood, a cousin of the bride. Performing the ceremony was the Rev. Gerald Haran, former St. Lucy's pastor who came from San Francisco for the wedding.

Mrs. Wood chose a mint green brocade sheath coat dress for her daughter's wedding. Mint green accessories and an orchid corsage completed her ensemble.

Robert is the son of Mrs. Beverly Black Marsh of Mariposa and Robert E. Anderson of Sunnyvale. A James Lick High School graduate, he is employed at the Continental Can Co. in San Jose. Mrs. Marsh wore an avocada green gown complimented by an orchid corsage.

Randy chose Richard Sciuto as his best man. Ushering were E. William Wood Jr. Steven Gross, Ronald A. Wood, Frank Munoz and Michael Frise.

Following the wedding ceremony the newly-weds greated their 300 guests at the Beverly Burbank Lions Club house which was decorated in bridal white. The new Mr. and Mrs. Anderson cut their five tierd cake before leaving for the wedding trip to Southern California, Mexico and Nevada. Mrs. Anderson chose an apricot sheath with matching coat and alligator shoes and bag for her going away outfit. The newly-weds are now making their home in Campbell.

Special guests at the ceremony were her grandfather, William Wood and grandmother, Mrs. Anthony Tonelli of Los Gatos and a great grandmother, Mrs. Laura Hodgers of San Leandro.

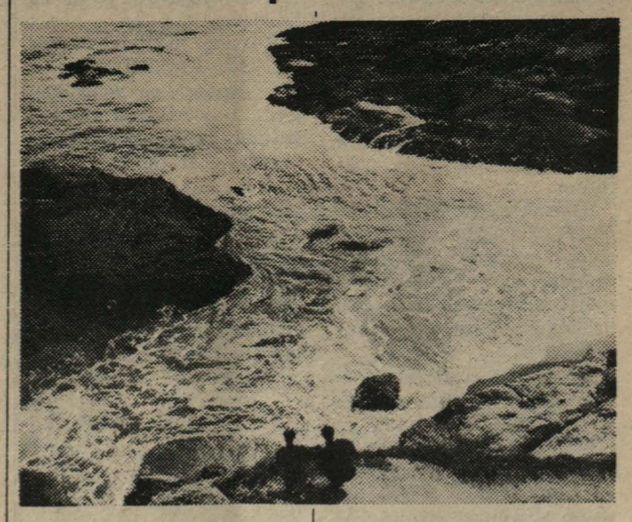
Visitors enjoy unique outdoor museum in trip to Point Lobos



Noted landscape painter Francis McComas called this wild area the "greatest meeting of land and water in the world". And most who visit Point Lobos agree with his description of this unique outdoor museum where large flocks of cormorants, pelicans, gulls, and colonies of California and Steller's sea lions provide enjoyment to the visitor.

It is an area of great diversity of habitat: grassland, brushland, forest, rugged seashore and offshore islands.

Covering 1,250 acres, Point Lobos is located in Monterey County along the south shore of Carmel Bay. The California State Automobile Association says it is just off State Route 1 and about 128 miles from San Francisco. an easy two and one-half hour drive.

Probably the most impressive force of nature on display at Point Lobos is the unfettered, ever-changing sea with its thundering roar as it hurls itself like a speeding train through the narrow fissures to smash onto the rocky headlands and beat out a staccato "whoom-whoom-whoom!".

Vantage points all along the six-mile long jagged shoreline allow the visitor to see the California sea otter and sea lions. The Steller sea lion is predominant on the offshore rocks, and can be seen swimming close to shore, In many of the coves, the sea otter comes in close as it dives for food or floats on its back in the kelp beds.

Trails lead around and through one of the most restricted coniferous species in the world, the Monterey Cypress, which grows only at Point Lobos and Cypress Point on the nearby 17-mile Drive. These 200-and 300-year old trees cling to the cliffs above the surf and have been shaped into twisted and gnarled forms by wind and weather. The living trees are rich in green foliage and when they die they present stark white grotesque skeletons.

Three of the more interesting offshore formations are Sea Lion Point, home of the noisy sea lions whose barking sounds like a herd of cattle; Bird Island, sanctuary for thousands of shore and water birds; and the Pinnacle, where the Pacific sends its waves crashing spectacularly onto the rocks.

Roads through the park are kept to a minimum but take you to trail heads only short walks from the many sights. Visitors will find the finer areas of the reserve on foot, over unobtrusive trails that lead to the features of greatest beauty and interest. Several areas have picnic facilities, although no fires are permitted. Camping is not permitted.

Acres of wild flowers transform the meadows, the shaded Monterey pine woods, and even the seacoast into a thrilling pattern of color and design from early April until fall with over 300 species of plant in the reserve.

Perhaps you'll enjoy most a walk out onto one of the rocky shorelines at low tide where marine life such as sponges, mollusks, barnacles, shore crabs, sea stars and sea urchins are on view. Deep tidal pools hold the giant sea anemone – flower-like with circles of tentacles, starfish and abalone.

The first underwater reserve in our nation is within a 750-acre plot of submerged land where universities, individuals and private research groups are continuously studying the intertidal marine plant and animal species.

Point Lobos is a place to walk, to stroll leisurely and pause in the timeless atmosphere of wind and surf, and depart refreshed.

WE GOOFED

We thought the lady said 5,000 and she said 50! So would you believe that we have 4950 "MINI-PADS" on hand and don't know what to do with them? What's a mini-pad? Well, just imagine good white bond paper cut into pieces 2 inches by 2½" padded into tablets and with a good sturdy cardboard backing--you know--a scratch pad in mini size.

So-o-o- if you can figure out a use for a MINI-PAD we have them. Our loss is your gain--we'll clear them out for you at just enough to recover, hopefully, the money it cost us for the paper stock.

40 cents a lb. ought to do it. They are available at THE CAMPBELL PRESS, 35 Dillon Ave. We might even furnish a sample if you have an idea as to how to put them to use.

We have thought that maybe a PIZZA PARLOR might use them for identifying their pizza's--or CHILDREN might like their own little tablet

ON CAPITOL HILL

with "Charlie" Gubser

When Astronauts Armstrong, Aldrin and Collins returned from outer space, they had achieved man's ancient dream and made good on President Kennedy's dramatic commitment of 1961 that we should go to the moon within a decade. Under such circumstances it was only natural that the rest of mankind, flushed with the historic achievement, would begin searching for a new dream to replace the one that had become a reality. Vice President Agnew was quite specific and said we should go to Mars before the turn of the century. Senator Percy went the Vice President a decade better. Others started talking about trips to Venus, Jupiter, Alpha Centauri and other planets.

I agree that man has a destiny in space and the APOLLO missions should be the beginning and not an end. But I hope that man will be sensible enough to set a realistic timetable for future space exploration which recognizes that there are things which must be done here on earth. Man's instinct is to extend his reach and to expand his life as far as possible, but his excitement and enthusiasm at achieving new worlds should be tempered by his intellect.

Though I am prideful as an American of the success of our moon mission I feel this is not the time to commit our resources to another hard timetable, another spectacular, or another race to Mars or any place else. In my opinion the scientific value of the moon mission, great as it turned out to be, could even have been greater with a more deliberate approach not geared to a specific date or to win a race against a particular opponent.

For the period immediately ahead, man should consider what he can do to improve his earthly environment. We are fast polluting the earth and increasing the risk that some day, eons of time away, it may be a "dead" planet. Overpopulation, disease, hunger and war threaten our lives on this planet as we reach into outer space. I do not suggest that we forget space, but I do believe our priorities must include more emphasis upon earthly problems.

Furthermore, the $24 billion it cost us to reach the moon will be insignificant compared to what it will cost to reach Mars. Even at today's highest rocket speeds, it would take nine months to complete the ten million mile round trip. Obviously today's technology will not do the job and newer, more expensive boosters and space vehicles will be requested.

Reaching Venus would require a four-year round trip and even if we developed the ultimate speed of 186,000 miles per second (the speed of light) it will take nine years to reach Alpha Centauri and return. To reach Venus, our closest neighbor, would require man to find means of withstanding a dense atmosphere of carbon dioxide and a surface temperature of 800 degrees.

It would be a mistake to dismiss future space exploration as beyond man's technical capability. We should work toward them but in an orderly and paced manner which truly serves science and recognizes that there are high priority goals which we must also meet here on earth.

Troop 339 Court of Honor held for four Eagle Scouts

Four members of Boy Scout Troop 339 received their Eagle Scout awards during a recently Eagle Court of Honor. The Troop is sponsored by the Moreland School PTA.

A third Ordeal member of the Order of the Arrow, Bruce Silva, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil J. Silva, 946 N. Harrison St. Bruce served almost three years as Den Chief for Cub Pack 379 and patrol leader and senior advisor for the Fox Patrol. Scoutmaster Jim Stamper made the presentation of the Eagle Award. He has been employed as a carrier boy for The Campbell Press, for over a year.

Bob Stamper, the fourth scout to receive the Eagle award, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Stamper, 921 Daffodil Way. The 14 year old youth served as Den Chief and Webelos Tenderfoot instructor in Cub Pack 339. He has also served as patrol leader and is currently serving as senior patrol leader. A brotherhood member of the Order of the Arrow he is also membership chairman of the group. His award was presented by John Walker, assistant scoutmaster.

Pamphlet lists diseases that hit breathing

Respiratory Diseases (RD) are illnesses that affect breathing. Some are contagious, spread by germs.

Some are not, according to a "Facts in Brief" pamphlet available from the Santa Clara-San Benito Counties Tuberculosis and Health Association, 1144 N. Fourth St., San Jose, 95112.

The common cold is the most widespread of the different kinds of RD. Some have no early symptoms at all, but shortness of breath, a nagging cough and wheezing may all be symptoms of RD, the pamphlet says.

Emphysema is one of the RDs that is not spread by a germ. Its cause--and cure--are unknown.

Tuberculosis (TB) on the other hand is caused by a germ-tubercle bacillus, the pamphlet explains. Anyone can get TB just from breathing in the germ from the air.

TB and emphysema often progress undetected until symptons indicate the definite development of the disease.

RD can last a lifetime or a few days. Acute RD spread from one person to another include: the common cold, flu and pneumonia.

The "Facts in Brief" pamphlet discusses many facets of all the RD including: how RD is found, smoking and air pollution, treatment, rehabilitation and prevention.

The Tuberculosis and Health Association, 1144 N. Fourth St. San Jose, 95112 (295-3533), has this pamphlet available.

Domestic arts demonstrations scheduled for Fair Aug. 15-24

Rug-hooking and braiding, ceramics, weaving and quilting will be part of the many action-demonstration booths in the Women's Department of the Silver Jubilee 25th Anniversary Santa Clara County Fair, Aug. 15-24. A special display of Hawaiian quilting and a demonstration, will also be featured this year. Women in Hawaiian garb will be demonstrating the one piece-pattern quilts native to the Hawaiian State.

Mrs. Marie Campbell, department chairman, points out contrary to the belief of many, women's home-economics is actually rising with the modern times. The department expects to report some 800 entries in canning--one or two women have entered as many as 100 separate entries in this division. Stitchery is also becoming more and more popular. There are new phases in fancy stitching, wall hangings, and textile decorations.

Special Silver Jubilee trophies will be awarded for the first time this year in several categories, including, canning, decorated cakes, handicraft, clothing textiles and household furniture classes.

Public judging of all food items such as cakes, pies, cookies and candy will be held each day during the Fair, from 1-3 p.m. Entries are brought in fresh each morning. The Santa Clara County Fair is the only Fair in the State which holds public judgings in this department.

The women's Department also features several variety-talent shows throughout the Fair in the Pavilion Building.

WOMEN'S DEPARTMENT--Montage featuring the Women's Department-Home Economics in the Pavilion Building.

Santa Clara County Fair opens this Friday for 10-day stand

The Silver Jubilee 25th Anniversary Santa Clara County Fair gets underway at noon Friday, Aug. 15 with an added fillip this year in the jubilee celebration.

It is hoped that last year's record attendance of 377,669 will be surpassed at this, the States' third largest Fair, to continue the yearly precedent of setting a new record for attendance and interest.

William A. Straub, Fair secretary-manager, believes the "secret of success" is providing "something for every one, throughout the 10 days of the Fair."

As in years past, exhibits range from Floriculture to Home Economics there will be entertainment on tap all the time, both professional and amateur, and both harness and pony racing to add a little spice.

Top military bands and the San Jose Municipal Band will once again perform as they have for years past, to retain the flavor of the "concert in the park" and memories of leisurely time often lost today in the hubbub of our industrialized society.

In that regard, too, the Fair has managed also to stay up with the present as well as bringing a touch of the nostalgic past. Major technological and industrial giants present exhibits of the Space and Electronic Ages in which we now live, alongside the tried and true Floriculture, Agriculture and Home Economics exhibits we have come to expect as part of the Fair.

Special attention is given also to the future, with not one but two, repeat, two Kids Days scheduled, on Tuesday, August. 19 and Friday, Aug. 22, when all youngsters under 16 are admitted free. Special activities are planned, including a "track meet", pie-eating contests, baton-twirling exhibitions and contests, parades and clowns.

Speaking of clowns, Bozo the Clown will be back again to pass out his candy and blow balloons into weird shapes to the delight of the children of all ages.

Scientific displays by major companies using high school students, "on-the-hoof" beef displays values at in excess of $2,000,000 will be shown in both senior and junior categories, with the latter competing for premiums in the Future Farmers of America and 4-H categories.

There is the annual art show, with a record entry list of 701 this year, 127 more than last year, and with about half of the total entries to be on display, In addition, there is the 14th annual Light Shadow International Salon and Exhibition, sponsored by the Photographic Society of America.

In the top-listed Home Economics Division, there will be competition for cakes, pies, canned goods and textiles.

It all adds up to a dazzling display of agriculture, floriculture, scientific knowledge, commercial advances.

FAIR ROYALTY--Vicki Buckley, 17, of Los Gatos, Silver Jubliee Queen of the 1969 Santa Clara County Fair that opens this Friday, Aug. 15, is flanked by her princesses Sharon Jo Wakefield, 19, and Corinne Braly, 17, both ot San Jose. The fair will run through Sunday, Aug. 24.

ORCHARD SUPPLY HARDWARE NEWSTORE-Pictured in the new Orchard Supply Hardware store opening this week at Branham Lane and Almaden Expressway.

Orchard Supply Hardware opens new store at Almaden-Branham

Of considerable interest to hundreds of Campbell area residents this week will be the opening of Orchard Supply Hardware's huge new store at Branham Lane and Almaden Expressway.

Among the Campbell contingent that is pretty certain to be on hand as the doors open for the first time, will be nearly 200 persons, all of whom are stockholders in the parent Orchard Supply Hardware.

There is considerable historic significance in the magnificent new store. Located on the site of the old Robertsville store midway between San Jose and the famous Almaden Mines, the new facility, with 40,000 square feet of selling area makes it the largest hardware store in Northern California.

The new store will feature nine complete departments, including hardware and do-it-yourself lumber and plywood, housewares, plumbing, electrical supplies, sporting goods, paint, garden and patio needs, nursery, radio and camera shop.

In contrast to the trend of nationwide chain stores, conglomerates and multiple operations, "OSH" is a tribute to individual enterprise.

Started in 1931 by 30 farmers, including 12 from the Campbell area, the store saw its sales go from $30,000 in 1931 to more than $6 million last year.

Founder of the store was Stanley B. Smith, Campbell farmer, who originally operated it as a farmer cooperative. Smith retired in 1953 to be succeeded at the helm by Kenneth J. Lewis.

With the new Branham Lane store, "OSH" now has four stores, the present main store on West San Carlos St., another at 10th and Santa Clara St., and a third at 3000 Alum Rock Ave.

Willow St. San Jose 7:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday.

COLLEGE BOUND

Michael J. McBride of 611 "B" Alpha Court, Campbell, has been accepted as a freshman student at Palmer College of Chiropractic, Davenport, Iowa.

He will take a four and one-third academic-year course of study leading to the degree of Doctor of Chiropractic (D.C.).

Lt. Kurt Ritter wins honors at Lackland Air Force Base

EDITOR'S NOTE: One of the main stories in the "Lackland Talespinner", the unofficial weekly newspaper published in the interests of personnel at Lackland Air Force Base in Texas, concerned Kurt Ritter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kurt Ritter of 119 Alice Ave., a graduate of Campbell High and associated with The Campbell Press during his "growing up years" from grade school through high school.

Naturally The Press takes pride in the achievement of one of its own "honor graduates" and is pleased to publish this account of the activities of First Lt. Kurt W. Ritter, now of the United States Air Force--G. V.

First Lt. Kurt W. Ritter, 3706th Training Squadron, has been selected Center junior officer of the quarter by a committee headed by Col. James E. Miller, Center vice commander.

Lt. Ritter's application of his education in history and communications to his duties as training officer for 1,600 basic trainees, and his dedication to helping the less fortunate led to his selection for the second quarter of this year.

He was graduated magna cum laude from Claremont Men's College in 1965 and in 1967 earned his master of arts degree in communications from the University of Indiana. The 25-year-old officer has three semesters completed toward a doctor of philosophy in communications.

The letter nominating Lt. Ritter for the quarterly honor cites application of his "full energies and talents to his Air Force assignment". He has tailored the training program to the needs of the many Air National Guard and Air Force Reserve members who pass through his squadron each year.

He was responsible for revamping outprocessing procedures for these personnel at considerable savings to the government. The nominating letter adds:

"As a result of Lt. Ritter's exceptional managerial ability, inspirational leadership, fair and just treatment of all personnel, and extraordinary comprehension of the basic military training program, his contribution to the smooth, successful operation of his squadron has been absolutely superior".

Lt. Ritter, who is an evening instructor at San Antonio College, joins his wife in teaching English to Mexican Americans on the west side of San Antonio. They teach 14 adults ranging in age from 18 to 60 years two nights a week on a voluntary basis.

LAST PREFORMANCE--The Gaslighters Theatre group will close down their current popular melodrama, "The Country Constable" with the last performance on Saturday, May 23. Hamilton S. Ryder on the left plays the part of the poor country bumpkin who has a crush on Mag. In the center is Card Aydolotte as the country constable while Linda McKee is the girl from the city, Mag Blossom.

Opening on the next weekend will be "The Human Hearts, or The Roses of Arkansas". The theater, located at 400 E. Campbell Ave., is open every Friday and Saturday all evening for those who delight in the old fashioned heart rendering tales followed by fast moving olios.

Taxpayers unit endorses three county measures

In an unanimous endorsement, the Santa Clara County Taxpayers Association is on record in support of measures A, B and C to be balloted on Sept. 16.

The measures, if approved, will provide benefits through increased public protection, youth guidance a public health facility at the County West Valley Center, improvements in now overcrowded Vasona Park and a modern mass transit system, according to sponsors of the issues.

Taxpayers association president Bart Van Eyck emphasized that measure B, public protection bonds, will be financed out of existing tax revenues, not property taxes. Measure C, park bonds, will cost property owners not more than five cents per $100 of assessed valuation, he stated.

"Passage of the measures is essential to meet the critical public protection, recreation and transit needs of county resident," Van Eyck said.

The three measures are: A-formation of a mass transit district to be financed by a half-cent sales tax.

B-projects to combat juvenile deliquency and crime, provide facilities for the administration of justice, public protection, health hospital and medical research at a cost of $41 million to be paid from existing sales taxes.

C-expansion and development of the county's regional park system by $15.3 million to cost four to five cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

TAXPAYERS APPROVAL--Board of Supervisors Chairman Sig Sanchez (left) accepts the Santa Clara County Taxpayers unanimous endorsement of measures A. B and C on the Sept. 16 ballot from Dale Scott of Campbell, executive director of the taxpayers group. Passage of the measures will provide for mass transit, public protection, youth guidance and more parks.

Unsecured personal property taxes go delinquent Sept. 2

Edward N. Glaeser, Santa Clara County Director of Finance, reminds all taxpayers who pay unsecured personal property taxes that they will become deliquent at 5:00 p.m. Sept. 2, 1969.

Payments may be sent by mail to the Tax Collector, 70 West Hedding St., San Jose, California 95110, but must be postmarked prior to 5 p.m. Sept. 2, 1969.

If the tax is not paid at that time, State laws require a six per cent penalty plus costs be added to all unpaid taxes. After December 31, 1969, an additional charge of one per cent per month will be added.

Unsecured personal property taxes are based on the value of the property on the lien date, March 1, 1969 for the tax year 1969. The disposal of property after the lien date does not relieve the taxpayer of his tax liability to the County.

Unsecured personal property consists of inventory, fixtures and equipment, improvements on leased property, boats, airplanes, and all other personal property not included in a real estate bill.
